

Complaint handling / Engagement with the IOPC – Monday 26 October 2020

Detective Chief Inspector Syed Hussain

Detective Chief Inspector Hussain had previously spent 5-years working in Anti-Corruption Command operations and recently re-joined the Department of Professional Standards (DPS) in January 2019 following a 12-year absence during which he worked in national Counter-Terrorism across all four strands of the CONTEST Strategy. In this time, he focussed on activities such as business change, developing policy, strategy, systems, processes, covert technologies, multi-agency information sharing agreements, and business reviews. He underpinned his professional experience with three Masters Degrees featuring evidence-based studies in Prison Intelligence and Counter-Terrorism Awareness messaging; and he has recently been accepted as a PhD candidate starting Jan 2021. He recently delivered the new DPS Prevention & Learning Portfolio and this month moved to a new challenge of running two Complaints Investigations Teams. He will soon be transferring to West Midlands Police as a Detective Superintendent after nearly 25 years in the MET Police..
