

FFLM Examinations Reading List

Introduction

It is recommended that candidates read widely for the DLM, LFFLM and MFFLM examinations. Examples of the core texts are given below and relevant FFLM examination guidance is available on the Exams page of the FFLM website. Throughout this document, relevant hyperlinks are underlined in blue and can be clicked through to the source document or page.

Candidates will also be expected to be familiar with statutes (Legislation.gov.uk) and secondary legislation relevant to the practice of medical law and the candidates' area of practice, for example statutes relating to criminal investigation, procedure, and evidence. A number of these are included with descriptions within the Legislation section of this document. A 'how to' guide for those unfamiliar with navigating the legislation website is included at the end of this document under the How to search on www.legislation.gov.uk section of this document.

It should be noted by candidates that the focus of the DLM and Part 1 is towards the legal aspect of medico-legal medicine rather than the clinical aspects. The Licentiate and Part 2 Membership examinations are more clinical/practically focused.

Regulatory Bodies

Candidates should be familiar with guidance produced by regulatory bodies.

General Dental Council

The FFLM would expect our Dento-Legal Advisors to already be familiar with the GDC Standards for the Dental Team, and we would anticipate that candidates have an awareness of the nine principles set out in the standards. Additionally, the GDC has a series of case studies and learning materials, which although dentally focussed may be useful for candidates in reviewing general principles.

General Medical Council

The FFLM particularly recommend that candidates review all the GMC core and supplementary guidance. This includes Good Medical Practice as well as supplementary guidance such as Confidentiality, Consent, Leadership & Management, Raising Concerns and others.

Nursing & Midwifery Council

In addition to being familiar with The Code, candidates should also review guidance on revalidation and duty of candour.

Health & Care Professions Council

Candidates should be aware of which professions are regulated by HCPC as well as being familiar with their core guidance.

Legislation

Although all areas of clinical practice are covered to a greater or lesser degree by rules and regulations it is particularly important to be aware of the legislative framework we work within in forensic and legal medicine.

In General Forensic Medicine the two Acts we most commonly encounter within forensic clinical practice are The Police and Criminal Evidence Act (1984) and the Road Traffic Act (1988). Whilst it is not necessary to know the specifics of every section of these Acts forensic clinicians should be familiar with a number of areas contained within these Acts as well as broadly familiar with the other legislation listed below.

Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984

Often referred to as PACE, this Act instituted a legislative framework to balance the powers of police officers in England and Wales with the rights and freedoms of the public. It has undergone a number of modifications since its inception and has equivalent Acts in Scotland (Criminal Procedure \(Scotland\) Act 1995) and Northern Ireland (Police and Criminal Evidence \(Northern Ireland\) Order 1989 (SI 1989/1341)).

PACE should be read in line with its associated codes of practice. The most important of these for forensic clinicians is Code C which sets out the requirements for managing detainees in police custody. A link to an electronic version of Code C is contained in the list of useful websites at the end of this document.

Within PACE itself sections 55 and 62 relating to intimate samples and searches respectively should be read by candidates.

Road Traffic Act 1988

The Road Traffic Act 1988 covers a range of offences related to driving. It is an area of legislation where forensic clinicians are required to perform a range of roles.

Candidates should be familiar with the following sections of the Act:

Section 4 - Driving, or being in charge, when under influence of drink or drugs

Section 5 - Driving or being in charge of a motor vehicle with alcohol concentration above prescribed limit

Section 5a \(inserted by Crime and Courts Act 2013\) - Driving or being in charge of a motor vehicle with concentration of specified controlled drug above specified limit

Section 7a \(inserted by Police Reform Act 2002\) - Specimens of blood taken from persons incapable of consenting

Section 9 – Protection for hospital patients

Other Relevant Legislation

Criminal Procedure and Investigations Act 1996 – Regulates the procedures of investigating and prosecuting criminal offences. The Criminal Procedure Rules are relevant for statements.

Mental Health Act 1983, 2007 and 2017 – The 1983 Act aimed to consolidate the law relating to mentally disordered individuals. The 2007 Act introduced a number of changes to the 1983 Act as well as to the Mental Capacity Act to take account of changes in practice.

Mental Capacity Act 2005 – As well as codifying how we assess mental capacity of patients by outlining statutory principles around capacity, this Act also established a new court – the court of protection.

Sexual Offences Act 2003 – Defines a range of sexual offences.

Offences Against the Person Act 1861 – Covers a range of offences consolidating case law into legislation. It has been subsequently amended and sections of it replaced by Acts including the Sexual Offences Act 2003 and The Criminal Justice Act 2003. You will often hear officers referring to Section 18 and Section 47 assaults and it is this Act they referencing.

Police Reform Act 2002 – Includes the creation of the Role of Police Community Support Officers and the statutory requirement for formation of the Independent Police Complaints Commission (which was replaced by the Independent Office for Police Conduct by the Policing & Crime Act 2017). It also inserted S7a into the Road Traffic Act. Schedule 4 Part 3 of the Act deals with the powers and duties of detention officers.

Terrorism Act 2006 – Detainees held under this Act may be referred to as TACT detainees.

Terrorism Prevention and Investigation Measures Act 2011 – abolished control orders replacing them with terrorism prevention and investigation measures.

Children Act 1989 (also Children Act 2004 & Children and Families Act 2014) – In particular establishes the principle that the child's welfare should be paramount. Established a range of duties relating to safeguarding.

Human Rights Act 1998 – Requires UK public bodies to interpret legislation wherever possible in a way compatible with the rights laid own in the European Convention on Human Rights.

Equality Act 2010 – Consolidated and codified a number of Acts relating to discrimination. Establishes protected characteristics and a duty for employers and service providers to make reasonable adjustments to accommodate individuals.

Data Protection Act 2018 - Governs principles of data protection and information sharing incorporating the Genera Data Protection Regulation.

Protection of Freedoms Act 2012 – Regulates retention and destruction of biometric data including DNA and fingerprints.

Although the general thrust of legislation in both Northern Ireland and Scotland is similar to that in England and Wales there are specific and important differences to represent the needs of those nations. Even for clinicians who do not work in these jurisdictions the different approaches to legislation can often be very informative to understand how law evolves especially when a more recent act incorporates lessons learned from rolling out similar legislation elsewhere.

Domestic Abuse Act 2021 - Section 70 Domestic Abuse Act (DA Act 2021) introduced the offences of non-fatal strangulation and non-fatal suffocation. Schedule 2, paragraph 4 DA Act 2021 introduced the offence of racially or religiously aggravated non-fatal strangulation or non-fatal suffocation. The offences came into force on 7 June 2022 and are not retrospective.

Northern Ireland

Mental Health \(Northern Ireland\) Order 1986 – This order covers the assessment, treatment and rights of people with a mental health condition in Northern Ireland. It should be read in conjunction with the Codes of Practice (which have been amended in line with The Coronavirus Act 2020). Clinicians may also find the Guidelines on the use of the Mental Health \(N.I.\) Order 1986 produced by the Guidelines and Audit Implementation Network in 2011.

The Mental Capacity Act \(Northern Ireland\) 2016 this act takes into account the findings of the Bamford Review which was carried out in 2007. It uses a subtly different method of assessing capacity to the MCA 2005 in England and Wales, which incorporates the principle of appreciation the relevance of information into the assessment (please note this is not yet fully in force although elements of it came into force in October 2019 and December 2019).

Sexual Offences \(Northern Ireland\) Order 2008 which brings the legislation in Northern Ireland more in line with that the rest of the UK, especially in connection with mandatory reporting of certain offences between minors.

Road Traffic \(NI\) Order 1995 in particular articles 14-21 relating to alcohol/drugs

Article 14 – Causing death, or grievous bodily injury, by careless driving when under influence of drink or drugs

Article 15 – Driving, or being in charge, when under influence of drink or drugs

Article 16 – Driving, or being in charge of, a motor vehicle with alcohol concentration above prescribed limit

The Criminal Justice \(N.I.\) Order 2005 inserted S18A into the Road Traffic (N.I.) Order 1995, this is equivalent to the changes made by the Police Reform Act 2002 in England & Wales to enable samples to be taken from incapacitated drivers.

The Children \(Northern Ireland\) Order 1995 is supported by guidance produced in Cooperating to Safeguard Children and Young People Northern Ireland 2017. Additional very useful information for safeguarding of adults is found in the following documents Adult Safeguarding: Prevention and Protection in Partnership 2015 and Adult Safeguarding Operational Procedures 2016.

Scotland

The Criminal Justice \(Scotland\) Act 2016 is broadly analogous to the Police and Criminal Evidence Act in England and Wales, providing powers of arrest and modernising and enhancing the Scottish criminal justice system.

The Mental Health \(Care and Treatment\) \(Scotland\) Act 2003 applies to individuals who have mental illness, learning disability or related conditions calling these mental disorders. It should be read in conjunction with the 2005 Codes of practice. It has been updated by the Mental Health \(Scotland\) Act 2015.

Additionally, the Adults with Incapacity \(Scotland\) Act 2000 introduced a system for safeguarding the welfare of and managing the finances and property of adults who lack capacity. It is underlined by a series of five principles (benefit, least restrictive option, taking account of the wishes of the adult, consultation with relevant others, and encouraging the adult).

Scotland followed England, Wales and Northern Ireland with the Sexual Offences \(Scotland\) Act 2009, incorporating the first statutory definition of rape in Scots Law. It also creates several other offences under the law in Scotland.

Although the Road Traffic Act 1988 also applies in Scotland limits under s5A came into force via The Drug Driving \(Specified Limits\) \(Scotland\) Regulations 2019. Scotland also has differing limits for alcohol to England & Wales which were brought into force by The Road Traffic Act 1988 \(Prescribed Limit\) \(Scotland\) Regulations 2014 and updated by The Drug Driving \(Specified Limits\) \(Scotland\) Regulations 2019.

In 2014 the Scottish Parliament enacted the Children and Young People \(Scotland\) Act 2014. This builds on and strengthens the Children \(Scotland\) Act 1995.

Authorised Professional Practice

Guidance produced by the College of Policing covering a wide range of areas from firearms to covert policing to mental health. Of particular relevance to forensic clinicians is the section on detention and custody which explores issues such as information sharing, management of substance misuse and mental health in custody. Additionally, there is a useful section on mental health.

The national decision model provides guidance for police and police staff on making decisions as well as a framework for reviewing and challenging them centred around a code of ethics.

[1] 5A (1) This section applies where a person (D)—

- drives or attempts to drive a motor vehicle on a road or other public place, or
- is in charge of a motor vehicle on a road or other public place, and there is in D's body a specified controlled drug.

(2) D is guilty of an offence if the proportion of the drug in D's blood or urine exceeds the specified limit for that drug.

(3) It is a defence for a person (D) charged with an offence under this section to show that—

- the specified controlled drug had been prescribed or supplied to D for medical or dental purposes,
- D took the drug in accordance with any directions given by the person by whom the drug was prescribed or supplied, and with any accompanying instructions (so far as consistent with any such directions) given by the manufacturer or distributor of the drug, and
- D's possession of the drug immediately before taking it was not unlawful under section 5(1) of the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 (restriction of possession of controlled drugs) because of an exemption in regulations made under section 7 of that Act (authorisation of activities otherwise unlawful under foregoing provisions).

(4) The defence in subsection (3) is not available if D's actions were—

- contrary to any advice, given by the person by whom the drug was prescribed or supplied, about the amount of time that should elapse between taking the drug and driving a motor vehicle, or
- contrary to any accompanying instructions about that matter (so far as consistent with any such advice) given by the manufacturer or
